Energy Justice Principles & Practice

Topics for Today

3. How Can I Get Connected & Involved?
What is Energy Justice?

People’s Climate March, NYC 2014
Energy Justice is a Legacy of Movements

- Energy justice should be understood in the context of generations of predominantly POC frontline movements that are active, evolving and ongoing.
Energy Justice Context

Energy Justice Follows a Body of Tradition and Research (Formal and Informal)

- Environmental Justice
- Climate Justice
- Indigenous Rights
- Human Rights
Environmental Justice

- Embraces the principle that “all people and communities have a right to equal protection and equal enforcement of environmental laws and regulations.”

- Requires the just and equitable distribution of environmental benefits and harms (including cumulative impacts over time).

Energy Justice Foundations

Climate Justice

● Those who have done the LEAST to contribute to climate crisis will experience its most devastating impacts FIRST
● Those that have contributed the MOST have an elevated responsibility to address the root causes of climate crisis
● Built upon and came after EJ

Energy Justice Context and Foundations

Let’s stop for some Q&A.
Energy Justice Frameworks

Energy Justice

- Focusing justice frameworks on energy law & policy
- Is an emergent area in both advocacy and scholarship
- Has risen with the push for a clean energy transition
Energy Justice Frameworks

Energy Systems Must Be:

- Available, affordable and sustainable.
- Developed with due process, transparency, accountability and responsibility.
- Fair and equitable among and for generations over time.*

Energy Justice Advocacy

Key Advocacy Terms and Concepts:

- Energy Democracy - a move from corporate monopoly-owned energy to more participatory models including (for example):
  - Community owned distributed generation
  - Municipalization & public power
- Energy Sovereignty - a “right” to self-determination with regards to energy systems
Key Advocacy Terms and Concepts:

- "Just Transition" - ensuring that fundamental systems change powers a move to new economic systems (for example, from an extractive to a regenerative economy). Longer held movement philosophy.
- "Green New Deal" - a specific resolution in congress that has grown into a broader idea that a clean energy transition can also create a more just society. Newly en vogue.
Important Current Topics:

- A just recovery for Puerto Rico (energy sovereignty, resilient renewable power, see Uprose) https://www.uprose.org/ourpowerprnyc-2
- The equity of utility energy efficiency spending and programs (Dr. Tony Reames, Energy Justice Lab) https://urbanenergyjusticelab.com
Energy Justice Frameworks & Advocacy

Let’s stop for some Q&A.
Energy Justice in New York State

NY Renews Rally at the NY State Capitol, June 2019
Energy Justice in New York State

The Climate Leadership and Community Protection Act (2019)

- The nation’s most ambitious state climate law (100 percent net-zero economy wide by 2050).
- Includes the nation’s most robust energy justice provisions.

Energy Justice in New York State

Climate Justice

- Includes a goal that 40% of state spending to fight climate crisis and create a clean energy economy be directed to disadvantaged communities (no less than 35%).
Energy Justice in New York State

Environmental Justice

- Requires that State contracts do not disproportionately burden disadvantaged communities.
- Requires that emissions and co-pollutant reductions are prioritized in disadvantaged communities.
- Creates a community air monitoring program to develop a measurable baseline for air quality improvement.
Energy Justice in New York State

Process

- Creates a Climate Action Council to develop a scoping plan.
- Creates a Just Transition Working Group of community, labor, CJ and EJ groups who will identify disadvantaged communities and advise the Council.
- Utilizes an Environmental Justice Working Group.
- Creates six additional expert advisory groups in specialty areas.
It’s not perfect... many would like to see (not a comprehensive list)

- Strong labor provisions.
- Indigenous rights provisions.
- A consistent funding stream to pay for ongoing climate action (for example, polluter fees).
